DETAILED ACTION

Claims 1, 4 and 6-11 were amended and claims 2, 3 and 5 were canceled via the Attorney's response filed on 5/24/2004. Claims 1, 4 and 6-11 are pending in the instant application.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC §101

35 U.S.C. 101 reads as follows:

Whoever invents or discovers any new and useful process, machine, manufacture, or composition of matter, or any new and useful improvement thereof, may obtain a patent therefore, subject to the conditions and requires of this title.

Claims 1, 4 and 6-11 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 101 because the claimed invention is directed to non-statutory subject matter.

The invention as recited in the claims is merely an abstract idea that is not within the technological arts. Mere ideas in the abstract (i.e., abstract idea, law of nature, natural phenomena) that do not apply, involve, use, or advance the technological arts fail to promote the "progress of science and the useful arts" (i.e., the physical sciences as opposed to social sciences, for example) and therefore are found to be non-statutory subject matter.

Mere recitation in the preamble (i.e., intended use) or mere implication of employing a machine or article of manufacture to perform some or all of the recited steps does not confer statutory subject matter to an otherwise abstract idea. "A discount sale management, etc." mere nominal use of a component, albeit within the technological arts, does not confer statutory subject matter to an otherwise abstract idea if the component does not affect or affect the underlying process.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

Claims 1, 4 and 6-11 rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Kaminsky U.S. Patent Application Publication No. 2001/0047308.

Referring to claim 1. Kaminsky disclose a discount sale management method of managing a selling price, comprising:

- Counting a sales quantity (Fig. 3, "Qty");
- Setting a discount price as the selling price, the discount price produced by a discount from an original price, while the sales quantity is less than a predetermined quantity (paragraph 0049 and paragraph 0050);
- Setting the original price as the selling price at the time the sales quantity becomes equal to or greater than the predetermined quantity (paragraph 0050);
- Lowering the discount price with a passage of time (paragraph 0050, "Current price 38 will drop a certain percentage over a given period of time.").

- Providing a discount price transition table which indicates a schedule of change of the discount price for a purchaser (paragraph 0050);
- Accepting, from the purchaser, a purchase reservation specifying a desired purchase price (paragraph 0052, "Shoppers thus make anonymous demands which will be accepted or declined individually within twenty-four hours."); and
- Setting a purchase reservation time of the purchase reservation when the selling price reaches the desired purchase price (paragraph 0052).

Referring to claim 4. Kaminsky further discloses a method comprising:

- Setting the discount price to a minimum discount price (paragraph 0044, "The business entity can set either a floor, or minimum price for the product they wish to offer..."); and
- Holding the minimum discount price as the selling price after the selling price reaches the minimum discount price, as long as the sales quantity is less than the predetermined quantity (paragraph 0039).

Referring to claim 6. Kaminsky further discloses a method comprising allocating a product to the purchase reservation if the sales quantity is less than the predetermined quantity when the selling price reaches the desired purchase price (paragraph 0049 and paragraph 0050).

Referring to claim 7. Kaminsky further discloses a method comprising canceling the purchase reservation if the sales quantity is equal to or greater than the predetermined quantity when the selling price reaches the desired purchase price (paragraph 0056).

Art Unit: 3625

Referring to claims 8-11. Claims 8-11 are rejected under the same rationale as set forth above in claims 1-7.

Response to Arguments

Applicant's arguments filed 5/24/2004 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive.

Provided is a copy of provisional application Serial No. 60/193,739 (to which priority was claimed by Kaminsky et al.). Provisional application Serial No. 60/193739 does provide adequate support for Patent Application Publication US 2001/0047308, thus making Patent Application Publication US 2001/0047309 proper prior art under 35 USC 102(e).

The Examiner notes, provisional application Serial No. 60/193739 discloses a price transition table which indicates a schedule of change of the discount price for purchaser (Provisional application Serial No. 60/193739, page 3).
